Yale alum David Love Ph.D. ’03, more affectionately known as Dukes, has been appointed the next provost of Williams College. His term begins September 1. Love joined the Williams Economics Department in 2003 after earning both an M.A. and Ph.D. in Economics form Yale. His research focuses on household savings, portfolio allocation, macroeconomics, public finance, and private pensions. Love has published articles in the Economic Journal, Journal of Monetary Economics, Review of Financial Studies, Journal of Financial Economics, and the Journal of Public Economics. He has served on various committees during his tenure at Williams, and is currently an editor at the Journal of Pension Economics and Finance.

Read more about David on the on the Williams College Letters from President page.

Source URL: http://dev.economics.yale.edu/news/former-grad-student-david-dukes-love-appointed-provost